Counselling Support

At MECS the students are very fortunate to have counselling support that caters for a variety of needs. The function of the unit is three-fold and is as follows:

Career Guidance: Students are assisted in making the right subject choice to ensure that they are able to follow their chosen career path. Universities are invited every year to give talks on their respective institutions and provide any relevant information that students may require when applying for university admission. Other institutions such as film and advertising schools are also afforded the opportunity to inform students of tertiary educational institutions that do not follow the traditional academic route.

Academic support:

Counsellors intervene when students experience academic difficulties. Interventions typically consist of meetings with parents and the pupil.

Emotional and psychological support:

MECS is fortunate to have the service of a highly skilled and experienced educational psychologist. Estie Boltan. Students who are dealing with personal issues are identified by either teachers or peers and then brought to her attention.
